This document outlines the key health, safety and environmental requirements applicable to all training and examination delegates while on TWI premises. It summarises individual responsibilities, mandatory safety and security controls, and essential procedures designed to prevent injury and protect health. Compliance with these requirements is a condition of access to, and participation in, TWI trainings and examinations.

1 Introduction

Under the terms of the Health & Safety at Work Act 1974 and associated legislation TWI has a duty to ensure your health and safety whilst on its premises. Whilst on TWI premises you also have a duty to co-operate and to follow all instructions as regards health, safety and the environment.

2 Personal Protective Equipment (PPE)

Appropriate PPE is required please ensure you bring your PPE with you. Appropriate protective footwear is required where there is a risk of injury to the feet, e.g. from heavy or sharp objects.

Eye Protection is mandatory for all operations such as grinding, thermal cutting, all welding or where there is a risk of hazardous substances entering the eye(s). Eye wash stations are provided for self-use. Please make yourself familiar with their locations and operations.

Welding emits ultra-violet and infra-red radiation, which can cause burning of the skin, therefore any exposed skin should be covered with appropriate workwear (overalls/lab coats). All welding and thermal cutting operations generate heat, which can leave specimens so hot that they can cause burns. Appropriate tools and gloves should be used and worn when handling these items.

Some substances used in welding and allied processes can cause irritation to the skin. The MSDS for the substance(s) should be consulted before use.

Grinding, welding and thermal cutting generates fumes and dust and some of the substances used can also be hazardous to health if inhaled. Local exhaust ventilation will normally be adequate for the removal of fume and dust. If in doubt about any of the substances being used, please ensure that you consult the MSDS or the tutor for your particular course.

3 FIRE PROTECTION

Your safety induction will cover:

- The sound of the fire alarm (sound and strobe), what to do in the event of a fire or discovering a fire and fire alarm testing (Lecturer will advise of day and time)
- Location of fire exits, fire alarm points, fire appliances, fire notices and the fire assembly area.

In the case of a fire the staff member in charge will tell you what to do. If you are the first person aware of the start of a fire, please inform the nearest member of staff. Please do as you are asked; do not panic or run but leave the building quickly from the nearest available emergency exit and assemble at TWI's fire assembly point, where TWI wardens will account for you.

Flammable liquids/materials must not be left in the vicinity of welding, thermal cutting, and grinding activities or any other activity where there is a risk of fire.

Compressed gas cylinders used for welding and related activities are all equipped with the correct fittings, e.g. regulators, hoses, gauges, clips, flashback arrestor's etc. Any damage or suspected leaks should be reported to a member of staff immediately. Only Training Centre Instructors are permitted to change gas cylinder fittings.

Smoking is not allowed in any building or building entrance.

4 ELECTRICAL SAFETY

All electrical equipment within TWI is inspected on a regular basis to ensure that it is safe to use. Do not interfere with or attempt to make any repairs to any electrical connections/equipment. When welding always attach a separate earth lead to metal workbenches. Do not work in wet or damp conditions or wear wet or damp clothing. Electrical faults must be reported to your instructor immediately.

5 IONISING RADIATION

X-rays and gamma rays constitute a serious health hazard. The radiation areas are controlled by a Radiation Protection Supervisor (RPS) and have a specific set of local rules. Course personnel involved with the use of ionising radiation will be briefed on these local rules. Other personnel must not enter these areas unless specifically cleared by the RPS. Classified workers are responsible for ensuring they bring and wear their own personal dose monitoring device

6 MANUAL HANDLING

Many heavy objects are used during training courses. You should not attempt to lift if unsure how to do so correctly. When handling these objects always use correct techniques (straight back and bend the legs). Never attempt to lift an object that is too heavy or large always seek assistance. Beware of sharp, abrasive or greasy surfaces and always wear appropriate PPE, e.g. protective footwear and gloves. Never place heavy objects in an unstable position.

7 ACCIDENTS

All accidents, near misses and dangerous occurrences must be reported to a member of TWI staff immediately

8 HEART PACEMAKERS

Heart pacemakers can react to the presence of strong, variable magnetic fields. Always inform a member of staff if you rely on a pacemaker.

9 FIRST AID

In the event of an injury during working hours you must report it to a member of staff who will arrange for First Aid treatment if required. Serious injuries or illnesses may require medical attention, e.g. hospital treatment; in this case TWI staff will make the necessary arrangements. For emergency medical attention out of working hours you should contact emergency services, if using a TWI office phone you will need to dial 2222.

10 FOOD AND DRINK

Food and drink is not allowed in the workshop area and must only be consumed in areas set aside for this purpose.
